Subject: Archipelago / NYSE Merger

As you've likely heard by now, last week we announced that we have reached a definitive agreement to merge with the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE). If approved by regulators, NYSE seatholders and Archipelago shareholders, this merger will represent the largest-ever among securities exchanges and combine the world's leading equities market with the nation's first totally open, fully electronic stock exchange. We believe this combination is good for the investing public and for corporate issuers.

Upon close, ArcaEx plans to operate as a wholly owned subsidiary under a new holding company, and we will continue to focus day in and day out on building a better stock exchange. Companies that are primarily listed will retain their current listing status and companies that are dually listed will continue to trade on ArcaEx and receive the data products currently available. We will maintain the same focus on building more efficient, investor-friendly markets that cater to your needs.

Throughout the years we've been a market that has pushed positive change across markets. We not only expect that focus to remain constant, but believe post-merger we will continue to build a better market for you. As we have more information to disseminate we will be in contact with you. In the interim, if you have any questions, please contact the ArcaEx Corporate Client Group.
