STOCK EXCHANGE RELEASE

Nokia applies for listing of newly issued shares related to share subscriptions

Helsinki, Finland - Nokia today filed an application to list shares issued by Nokia as a result of stock options exercised from Nokia's stock option plans 1999, 2001 and 2003, on the Helsinki Exchanges' Main List prior to the trade registration of such shares. The listing will commence on July 1, 2004, and will apply to share subscriptions during 2004. The intention is to renew the listing each calendar year thereafter. The newly issued shares will be traded as a separate class of shares under the trading code NOK1VM104 (Nokia Uudet in Finnish, meaning Nokia New) until the trade registration date of such shares. On the date of registration, the newly issued shares (NOK1VM104) will be combined with the NOK1V share class. All Nokia share subscriptions based on the Nokia stock option plans 1999, 2001 and 2003, will be denoted as one share class (NOK1VM104).

Until the date of trade registration, the newly issued shares do not carry any shareholder rights and, therefore, differ from the (NOK1V) share class. The intention is to register the newly issued shares (NOK1VM104) approximately once a month to be combined to the NOK1V class, at which point they will receive the same rights as the other (NOK1V) shares.

The purpose of the continuous listing is to improve the efficiency of the subscription process of Nokia's outstanding stock option plans and the related share subscriptions. The listing enables trading with newly issued shares already prior to the trade registration, which only takes place at certain dates during the year.
