"During the past 30 months, Jeff has gained invaluable experience as head of our European division, overseeing all aspects of our European operations in eight countries, and building on many of the strategic alliances he initially helped negotiate," Carty added. "The Board of Directors and I have enormous confidence in his capabilities."

Campbell received a B. A. Degree in Economics from Stanford University in 1985 and a Master's in Business Administration from Harvard University in 1990. He and his wife have a daughter and two sons.

Carty said American was sorry to see Horton leave the company, but wished him well on his departure.

"We thank Tom for 17 years of exceptional service to our company and we congratulate him on this next phase of his career," Carty said.

Horton joined American in 1985 as a financial analyst and served in a number of senior positions in finance, treasury and accounting - as well as Vice President-Europe - before being named Senior Vice President-Finance and CFO in January 2000.
