There is no revision of our initial forecast for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2005, which was described in Form 6-K filed on April 27, 2004. (Please refer to the accompanying Forward Looking Statements on page 11 with regard to the forecasts.)

Business Results and Cash Flows for the Three Months Ended June 30, 2004

1. Business Results for the Three Months Ended June 30, 2004

(1) Economic Situation and Business Environment

The Japanese economy showed clear signs of recovery during the three months ended June 30, 2004 (the first quarter) represented by improving corporate earnings, expanding capital investment in the private sector and increasing personal consumption. The U.S economy also recovered steadily supported by an improvement in the employment situation in addition to expansion of capital expenditures in the private sector and increasing personal consumption. The European economy as a whole recovered moderately. Asian economy grew smoothly due mainly to the strong growth of the Chinese economy.

In the electronics industry, the production volume increased in Asia, especially Japan and China for mobile phones and other digital consumer products. Additionally, markets for semiconductors and personal computers expanded steadily on a global scale.

1) Sales

Sales of Kyocera Corporation and its consolidated subsidiaries (Kyocera) for the first quarter increased in all operating segments compared with those in the three months ended June 30, 2003 (the previous first quarter).

Demands for Kyocera s components business such as Fine Ceramics Group and Electronic Device Group were strong supported by the favorably increased production activities. As favorable market environment has spurred an increase in production volume and a decline in prices for components has not been intense, sales of Kyocera s components business has increased significantly in the first quarter compared with the previous first quarter. Sales of Equipment Group have increased due mainly to increased sales of mobile handsets in the U. S. and information equipment.

As a result, consolidated net sales for the first quarter amounted to ¥293.1 billion, an increase of 15.8% compared with the previous first quarter.

2) Profit

The effect of an increase in sales coupled with a considerable growth in component production volume resulted in an improvement of production efficiencies. Group-wide structural reforms implemented in the previous fiscal year that aimed to improve operating profitability also began to show positive effects in the first quarter. Consequently, profit from operations for the first quarter increased approximately 2.7 times compared with the previous first quarter. Income before income taxes increased to ¥38.1 billion, approximately 2.3 times, while net income increased to ¥22.0 billion, approximately 2.0 times compared with the previous first quarter, respectively.

3) Effect of Exchange Rate Fluctuations

The yen appreciated 8 yen against the U.S. dollar and 3 yen against Euro compared with the average exchange rates in the previous first quarter, respectively. Consequently, net sales after translation into yen were negatively affected by approximately ¥10.5 billion compared with the previous first quarter. Also, income before income taxes after translation into yen was negatively affected by approximately ¥2.4 billion compared with the previous first quarter.

(3) Operating Highlights

- 1) Kinseki, Ltd. (Kinseki), a wholly-owned subsidiary, and Kyocera Corporation re-organized the operations related to crystal components on April 1, 2004. Kinseki s marketing division was merged into the marketing division of the electronic component of Kyocera Corporation and the manufacturing division of crystal related components of Kyocera Corporation was transferred to Kinseki. At the same time, Kinseki changed its name to Kyocera Kinseki Corporation (Kyocera Kinseki).
- 2) On April 1, 2004, Kyocera integrated the organic material components business into Kyocera SLC Technologies Corporation (KST), a wholly owned subsidiary. Management resources relating to the organic material components business were concentrated in KST to enhance the synergistic effects within Kyocera and to expand the business base.
- 3) On May 18, 2004, Kyocera announced that a new factory would be built in the City of Ayabe, Kyoto Prefecture. The new factory would have three floors high with a total floor area of 25,200 m². Operations are expected to commence in June 2005. At the factory, KST plans to produce semiconductor organic packages and laminated high-density printed circuit boards used in micro processors and chipsets for digital consumer products. Planned investment in the factory will amount to approximately ¥17.0 billion in total.

- 4) On May 21, 2004, Kyocera reached an agreement with Kobe Steel, Ltd. (Kobe Steel) to merge the medical material operations of both companies into a successor company, Japan Medical Materials Corporation, which will be established on September 1, 2004. As a dedicated manufacturer of medical materials, a successor company will benefit from the integration of the specialized expertise of Kyocera and Kobe Steel in material processing technologies, while maximizing synergies by integrating development, production and marketing divisions. It will also seek to expand its business worldwide.
- 5) On June 21, 2004, the Carlyle Group (Carlyle), Kyocera, KDDI Corporation (KDDI) and DDI Pocket, Inc. (DDI Pocket) reached an agreement that a consortium of Kyocera and Carlyle would acquire the business of DDI Pocket, a subsidiary of KDDI. Under the agreement, the company that succeeds DDI Pocket s business (the NewCo) will be 30% owned by Kyocera. In cooperation with NewCo, Kyocera will endeavor to expand sales in its PHS related business by carving out new markets in Japan as well as overseas.

Commencing in the third quarter of the fiscal year ended March 31, 2004 (October to December 2003), net sales and operating profit of Precision Machine Division of Kyocera Corporation, previously included within Others, have been charged to Corporate. Accordingly, previously reported net sales and operating profit of operating segment for the previous first quarter were restated.

Table of Contents

1) Fine Ceramics Group

Demand for fine ceramic parts was strong, particularly for semiconductor and LCD fabrication equipment and sapphire substrates for LEDs. In semiconductor parts, sales of ceramic packages especially applicable for mobile handsets and digital consumer products increased appreciably. Sales of cutting tools and solar energy products also increased. Operating profit in this segment rose markedly in the first quarter, increasing approximately 2.5 times compared with the previous first quarter. Primary attributable factors were the effect of sales increases and the effects of cost reduction through expanded production in China, notably of semiconductor parts.

2) Electronic Device Group

Overall sales in this segment grew due primarily to strong performances from ceramic capacitors and crystal related components driven by an increase in component demand. In addition to sales contribution since the start of the fiscal year from Kyocera Kinseki, which became a consolidated subsidiary in August 2003, sales at AVX Corporation, a U.S. subsidiary, increased remarkably. Strong sales, improved rate of operation and the absence of restructuring charges that were recorded in the previous first quarter culminated in an approximately 8.8 times increase in operating profit.

3) Equipment Group

Sales of information equipment rose as Kyocera Mita Group secured major new customers and expanded its product line-up. Despite sluggish sales of mobile phones in Japan due mainly to the product line-up consisted mainly of stayed models, sales at KYOCERA WIRELESS CORP., a U.S. subsidiary, increased. As a result, sales of telecommunications equipment increased. Operating profit in this segment increased, due predominantly to improved margins of information equipment business, including successful product cost reduction by standardizing engines and components for printers and multi-function products.

4) Others

Sales and operating profits in this operating segment increased due to favorable results of Kyocera Chemical Corporation, especially in its business of flexible printed circuits materials and epoxy molding compounds for semiconductor packages, and favorable results at Kyocera Communication Systems Co., Ltd. (KCCS), especially in its data center business, network optimizing business and telecommunications engineering business.

Table of Contents

1) Cash Flows from Operating Activities

Net cash provided by operating activities in the first quarter increased by $19,893 million to $26,812 million from the previous first quarter of $6,919 million. This was due mainly to an increase in net income by $11,252 million to $21,982 million and a decrease in receivables.

2) Cash Flows from Investing Activities

Net cash used in investing activities in the first quarter increased by ¥117,052 million to ¥114,211 million from net cash provided in the previous first quarter of ¥2,841 million. This was due mainly to increases in purchases of the government bonds and negotiable certificate of deposits (CD) in consideration of current and future financial position according to our investment policy.

3) Cash Flows from Financing Activities

Net cash used in financing activities in the first quarter decreased by $1,815 million to $7,576 million from the previous first quarter of $9,391 million. This was due mainly to an increase in short-term debt.

Notes:

- Kyocera applies the Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No.130, Financial Reporting of Comprehensive Income. Based on this standard, comprehensive income for the three months ended June 30, 2004 and 2003 was an increase of 38,183 million yen and an increase of 55,984 million yen, respectively.
- 2. Earnings per share amounts were computed based on SFAS No.128, Earnings per Share. Under SFAS No.128, basic earnings per share was computed based on the average number of shares of common stock outstanding during each period and diluted earnings per share assumed the dilution that could occur if securities or other contracts to issue common stock were exercised or converted into common stock or resulted in the issuance of common stock.

Re: Consolidated Financial Results for the Three Months Ended June 30, 2004 (Information purposes only)

As set forth in the earnings digest relating to the fiscal year ended March, 31, 2004 (described in Form 6-K filed on April, 27, 2004), with effect from the fiscal year ending March, 31, 2005, Kyocera has been publicly announcing financial forecasts for full fiscal years only.

The consolidated income before income taxes and net income for the three months ended June 30, 2004 as announced today have already exceeded the consolidated income before income taxes and net income for the six months ended September 30, 2003 by 51.5% and 39.5%, respectively. Accordingly, Kyocera hereby announces them for Timely Disclosure.

Kyocera does not revise the consolidated financial forecast for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2005, which was described in Form 6-K filed on April 27, 2004 as follows:

		Increase or decrease (%) compared with
	Financial forecast for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2005 (yen	the fiscal year ended
	in millions)	March 31, 2004
Net Sales	1,260,000	10.4
Income before Income Taxes	140,000	21.7
Net Income	85,000	24.8

Note: Forward-Looking Statements

Certain of the statements made in this document are forward-looking statements (within the meaning of Section 21E of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Act of 1934), which are based on our current assumptions and beliefs in light of the information currently available to us. These forward-looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors. Such risks, uncertainties and other factors include, but are not limited to: general economic conditions in our markets, which are primarily Japan, North America, Europe, and Asia, including in particular China; changes in exchange rates, particularly between the yen and the U.S. dollar and Euro, respectively, in which we make significant sales; our ability to launch innovative products and otherwise meet the advancing technical requirements of our customers, particularly in the highly competitive markets for ceramics, semiconductor parts and electronic components; the extent and pace of future growth or contraction in information technology-related markets around the world, including those for communications and personal computers; and events that may impact negatively on our markets or supply chain, including terrorist acts and outbreaks of diseases such as SARS. Such risks, uncertainties and other factors may cause our actual results, performance, achievements or financial position to be materially different from any future results, performance, achievements or financial position expressed or implied by these forward-looking statements. We undertake no obligation to publicly update any forward-looking statements included in this document.
