How You Benefit

How Consumers Benefit

Our commitment to ensuring that consumers have access to affordable health coverage is the foundation of Anthem's proposed acquisition of Cigna, and will remain one of our top priorities. Our responsibility as a health benefits company is evolving, and we recognize the need to help health care consumers decide how to choose a plan and utilize health care—not just pay for it. This acquisition will further our mission to follow through on this important responsibility and deliver the highest quality and most efficient access to care available to members.

No company will be better positioned to compete and apply the insights and access to a broad network and dedicated local presence to address the health care challenges of the increasingly diverse markets, membership, and communities we serve.

By realizing the expected network benefits that will result from this acquisition, Anthem will operate more efficiently to reduce operational costs and, at the same time, enhance our ability to manage the cost drivers that negatively impact affordability for members while preserving the quality of care. The proposed combination will also allow us to expand the positive effects of our successful population health management programs that have improved patient outcomes, generated meaningful cost savings, and empowered consumers to more actively engage in their own health and wellbeing.

It is important to note that this transaction is not expected to close until the second half of 2016, so for the time being it is business as usual at Anthem. This news does not have an impact on the benefits our affiliated health plan members have today, and does not alter any Anthem or Cigna agreements with physicians, hospitals and other health care providers.

How Employers Benefit

By acquiring Cigna, Anthem's affiliated health care plans will be able to enhance their broad spectrum of personally relevant, high-quality, high-value products and services that exceed consumer expectations, and ensure as many consumers as possible in our markets have access to quality, affordable health care.

Anthem's best-in-class commercial businesses will be supplemented by Cigna's complementary capabilities to serve individual, local large and small group customers, and national employers, allowing the sharing and integration of innovative individual and employer solutions across this important customer base.

With the acquisition of Cigna, our capabilities and geographic footprint will expand access to an unmatched network of hospitals, physicians, and health care professionals. No company will be better positioned to apply the insights and access to a broad network and dedicated local presence to address the health care challenges of the increasingly diverse markets, membership and communities we serve.

How Providers Benefit

The foundation of our transaction is our commitment to affordable health coverage for consumers in our markets. One of the best ways we continue to deliver on this commitment is by working collaboratively with the delivery system to advance quality, safety, and value.

For a combined nearly 275-year history, Anthem and Cigna have worked hard to promote collaboration and innovation with the delivery system. Anthem's affiliated health plans offer the industry's leading portfolio of providers and the complementary resources and capabilities of Cigna will expand the positive impact of these arrangements and also allow the sharing of information, best practices and data and analytics to help providers and consumers.

Anthem and Cigna share a belief that the health care system best serves consumers when all parts of the system work together. This includes the nation's largest and longest running hospital quality program and our Enhanced Personal Health Care program, which promotes the physician-patient relationship and sustainability of primary care through enhanced reporting, comprehensive quality standards, expanded access, and shared savings.

Our health plans are committed to their provider partnerships and to working with providers to promote and preserve the health and wellbeing of our members.

How Policymakers Benefit

Rising health care costs are driven by numerous of factors including widespread chronic disease, poor quality and uncoordinated care, and delivery system consolidations that have led to increased costs for consumers

As a result of this acquisition, Anthem expects to operate more efficiently by reducing our own operational costs, and, at the same time, enhancing our ability to manage the cost drivers that negatively impact affordability for consumers.

We believe the proposed acquisition will diversify our current business lines and enhance value, choice, and access. Anthem and Cigna geographies and product offerings are complementary, with limited geographic or operational overlap.

Through the acquisition of Cigna, Anthem's affiliated health plans will be better positioned to offer a full spectrum of affordable health benefits solutions to individuals, small businesses, large employers, and federal and state governments. Both companies are committed to working collaboratively with all those concerned to obtain approvals and work to ensure the consumers and communities we serve benefit from the transaction.

How Brokers Benefit

Through the acquisition of Cigna, Anthem will enhance its broad spectrum of personally relevant, high-quality, high-value products and services that exceed consumer expectations, and ensure as many consumers as possible in our markets have access to quality, affordable health care. Brokers will benefit from Anthem's enhanced efficiency, scale and reach.

By offering a diverse portfolio of products and services responsive to consumer needs, including more than 1,000 new products for individuals in the health insurance exchanges, Anthem's affiliated health plans have generated compelling business, revenue, and membership growth. Cigna's capabilities in these three areas are innately complementary to Anthem's and were key factors in our decision to pursue this acquisition.

No two companies are more experienced and accustomed to creating products and services tailored to local, national, and international needs than Anthem and Cigna. We will maintain this focus and flexibility to address the health care challenges of our diverse local markets and consumer populations.

How Investors Benefit

Anthem's acquisition of Cigna will deliver immediate and long-term value to consumers and shareholders through:

Expanded provider collaborations;

Enhanced affordability and cost of care management capabilities; and

Superior innovations and breadth of solutions that deliver a better overall health care experience for consumers.

This combination will create a diversified company with more than $115 billion in pro forma annual revenues, based on 2015 outlooks publicly reported by both companies and a comprehensive range of trusted products and services to individuals, employers, state and federal governments, and international customers.

We expect to close the transaction in the second half of 2016, pending the receipt of certain regulatory approvals, standard closing conditions and the approval of Anthem and Cigna stockholders.

We are eager to leverage the deep and unmatched health care knowledge, talent and expertise of both organizations to achieve the goals of this combination and position Anthem for future success.
