New Facility Investment

On July 25, 2017, the Board of Directors of LG Display resolved to invest Won 7.8 trillion in building new facilities in Paju, Korea, which would be used for the production of large-sized as well as small- and medium-sized OLED panels. The investment is expected to enable the Company to better respond to market demand for OLED panels and help strengthen its manufacturing competitiveness. The project is scheduled to begin in the third quarter of 2017 and continue until the second quarter of 2019. The final completion date is subject to change depending on market conditions and the Company's internal schedule.

Decision to Acquire Shares or Investment Certificates of Other Corporations

On July 25, 2017, the Board of Directors of LG Display resolved to establish a joint venture in China with the government of Guangzhou to manufacture OLED panels, subject to the Korean government's approval. The gross capital of the joint venture is expected to be RMB 15.6 billion (approximately Won 2,578,524,000,000) and the Company's acquisition cost is expected to be approximately Won 1,804,966,800,000, with the Company expected to have 70% ownership of the joint venture (the gross capital and acquisition cost are based on the currency exchange rate as of July 25, 2017, and are subject to change). The joint venture will be structured as an affiliate of the Company, and is expected to help improve the Company's capacity to manufacture large-sized OLED panels. The name, representative, percentage of shareholding and acquisition cost of the joint venture are not final as of this date and the Company will make a public announcement once they are finalized.
