On August 24, 2017, William A. Ackman sent the following letter to Carlos Rodriguez, President and CEO of Automatic Data Processing, Inc. (ADP) and John P. Jones, Non-Executive Chairman of ADP:

August 24, 2017

Gentlemen,

As often happens in these types of situations, it appears that there have been misunderstandings over the past few weeks which unfortunately have clouded what should have been a productive relationship from the start. That was certainly our goal from the beginning. I am sure that you would agree that it would serve all stakeholders if we can put these issues behind us and focus on what is in the long-term best interests of ADP.

To that end, we look forward to the opportunity to meet with you and the rest of the board on Tuesday, September 5th and engaging in a productive and substantive discussion. In order to use the time efficiently, it would be helpful if you would identify any specific areas of interest the Board would like us to address in the meeting. We assume that the board will have already viewed our presentation. We look forward to addressing in detail any questions or concerns that the Board may have in order to facilitate a meaningful dialogue at and after our September 5th discussion.

We look forward to seeing you and the rest of the ADP Board on September 5th.

Sincerely,

/s/ William A. Ackman
