Dear xxxxx shareholder:

This year, as in the past, you will have the opportunity to vote on a number of proposals laid out in the Ecolab proxy materials. Most are familiar and somewhat routine.

Because you are a significant Ecolab shareholder, we wanted to give you a fuller explanation and additional perspective for one particular proposal that relates to proxy access. This shareholder proposal would allow an unlimited number of shareholders to aggregate for purposes of accessing the proxy.

Ecolab's board of directors believes strongly that it is in the best interests of the shareholders to vote against the shareholder proxy access proposal for two reasons. First, we believe this proposal is counter to the interests of those who have taken a significant position in our stock, by enabling an unlimited number of small shareholders to form groups to drive a particular agenda. Second, we believe we already have a reasonable and balanced proxy access bylaw.

At our December 2015 meeting, the Ecolab Board adopted a proxy access bylaw that is consistent with market standards. This bylaw was responsive to the views and policies of many of our shareholders and creates a robust proxy access right.

Our proxy access bylaw gives any shareholder or group of up to 20 shareholders holding at least 3% of our shares for at least 3 years the right to include in our proxy statement candidates for election to the board, comprising up to 20% of our Board with a minimum of two candidates, whichever is greater.

Because proxy access is now an established right of the shareholders, we recommend that shareholders vote against Item 5.

If you have questions on anything in our proxy statement, we would be happy to talk with you during the next two weeks. Please let me know if you'd like to set up a call.

Regards, [x]
