Maxim Integrated Announces Definitive Agreement to Acquire Volterra Semiconductor, a Leader in Integrated Power

- ♣ Maxim Integrated to acquire Volterra Semiconductor for $23 per share
- ♣ Transaction valued at $605 million equity value; $450 million enterprise value
- ♣ Maxim expects transaction to be immediately accretive to GAAP EPS, excluding special items
- ♣ Volterra product portfolio increases Maxim's leadership position in integrated power management
- ♣ Adds talented engineering team with proven track record of success

SAN JOSE, CA- August 15, 2013 - Maxim Integrated Products, Inc. (NASDAQ:MXIM) announced it has entered into a definitive agreement to acquire Volterra Semiconductor Corp. (NASDAQ:VLTR) for $23 per share, which represents a 55% premium to Volterra Semiconductor's closing share price on August 14, 2013. The transaction value is approximately $605 million equity value or $450 million net of Volterra's cash position of approximately $155 million.

Volterra is an industry leader in high-current, high-performance, and high-density power management solutions. The company develops highly integrated solutions primarily for the enterprise, cloud computing, communications, and networking markets. Volterra's portfolio of highly integrated products enables better performance, smaller form factors, enhanced scalability, improved system management, and lower total cost of ownership.

“Maxim Integrated is known for its highly integrated solutions. With Volterra, we will strengthen our position in the enterprise and communications markets,” said Tunç Doluca, Maxim's President and Chief Executive Officer. “We add a very talented team and leading-edge proprietary technology in high-current power management solutions, which further diversifies our business model.”

“This is an attractive transaction for our employees, customers, and investors,” said Jeffrey Staszak, Volterra's President and Chief Executive Officer. “The Volterra team will build upon Maxim's scale and market leadership to expand our ability to deliver innovative and differentiated products to our customers. We remain committed to providing our customers with advanced technology solutions and world-class quality and support. Joining forces with the innovative Maxim team will present exciting new opportunities for Volterra's talented employees.”

At $9 billion, power management is currently the largest and fastest-growing product segment in the analog market, according to Databeans. Maxim offers a broad portfolio of products for power conversion: switching regulators, linear regulators, charge pumps, digital Point-of-Load (POL) converters, and Power Management Integrated Circuits (PMICs), primarily in medium-to-low current applications. Volterra's high-current technology expands our position in this growing segment of the analog market.

Pending regulatory approvals, Maxim's acquisition of Volterra is expected to close early in the December quarter.

Cautionary Note Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

This press release contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. These forward-looking statements generally can be identified by phrases such as Maxim, Volterra or management of either company "believes," "expects," "anticipates," "foresees," "forecasts," "estimates" or other words or phrases of similar import. Similarly, statements herein that describe the proposed transaction, including its financial impact, and other statements of management's beliefs, intentions or goals also are forward-looking statements. It is uncertain whether any of the events anticipated by the forward-looking statements will transpire or occur, or if any of them do, what impact they will have on the results of operations and financial condition of the combined companies or the price of Maxim or Volterra stock. These forward-looking statements involve certain risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those indicated in such forward-looking statements, including but not limited to: the ability of the parties to consummate the proposed merger and the satisfaction of the conditions precedent to consummation of the proposed merger, including the ability to secure regulatory approvals at all or in a timely manner; the ability of Maxim to successfully integrate Volterra's operations, product lines and technology and realize additional opportunities for growth; the ability of Maxim to realize synergies in terms of growth and cost savings; and the other risks and important factors contained and identified in Maxim's and Volterra's most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K, and other SEC filings of the companies, that could cause actual results to differ materially from the forward-looking statements. All forward-looking statements included in this news release are made as of the date hereof, based on the information available to Maxim as of the date hereof, and Maxim assumes no obligation to update any forward-looking statement except as required by law.

Important Additional Information Will Be Filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission

This announcement is not a recommendation, an offer to purchase or a solicitation of an offer to sell shares of Volterra's stock. Maxim has not commenced the tender offer for shares of Volterra's stock described in this announcement. Upon commencement of the tender offer, Maxim will file with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) a tender offer statement on Schedule TO and related exhibits, including an offer to purchase, letter of transmittal, and other related documents. Following commencement of the tender offer, Volterra will file with the SEC a solicitation/recommendation statement on Schedule 14D-9. Stockholders should read the offer to purchase and solicitation/recommendation statement and the tender offer statement on Schedule TO and related exhibits when such documents are filed and become available, as they will contain important information about the tender offer. Stockholders can obtain these documents when they are filed and become available free of charge from the SEC's website at www.sec.gov or by contacting the investor relations departments of Maxim or Volterra at their respective email addresses included below.

On August 15, 2013, the following communication was sent on behalf of Jeffrey J. Staszak, President and CEO of Volterra, to customers of Volterra:

Customer Email

Dear Valued Volterra Customer,

Today Maxim Integrated Products announced it has entered into a definitive agreement to acquire Volterra Semiconductor. The transaction is subject to regulatory approvals, customary closing conditions and other conditions specified in the merger agreement. We expect the transaction to close in the fourth calendar quarter of 2013.

Maxim Integrated invents highly integrated solutions that make technology seamless. The acquisition adds Volterra Semiconductor's integrated power management solutions to Maxim's strong portfolio of products to address the mobility, industrial, medical, computing, communications and automotive markets. The combined product lines of Maxim Integrated and Volterra Semiconductor would offer you a broader range of innovative solutions to serve your needs.

Operationally it will be business as usual for our customers. We will communicate any changes that may occur to you as timely as possible, but for the foreseeable future, we request that you continue to do business using your current contacts and processes for Volterra Semiconductor products.

We remain committed to providing you with outstanding customer service, advanced technology solutions, industry leading supply chain management, and world-class quality and manufacturing. We look forward to a long and mutually beneficial relationship.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact your local sales support person.

Best Regards,

Jeffrey J. Staszak
President and CEO
Volterra Semiconductor

On August 15, 2013, the following communication was sent on behalf of Jeffrey J. Staszak, President and CEO of Volterra, to employees of Volterra:

Everyone,

I am excited to report that, as announced early this morning, Volterra has entered into a definitive agreement to be acquired by Maxim Integrated Products in an all-cash transaction for $23 per share of Volterra stock, representing a 55% premium to Volterra's closing stock price yesterday. This acquisition agreement, approved by both companies' Boards of Directors represents an exceptional opportunity for the employees, customers, and shareholders of both Maxim and Volterra. We believe this combination could significantly accelerate the achievement of our long-term goals with complementary technologies and customer channels and a common focus and vision.

As the leader in analog integrations, Maxim is one of the largest analog systems companies with approximately 9,000 employees, 2012 fiscal revenues of $2.4 billion and a market cap in excess of $8 billion. Its product portfolio includes leadership in the consumer, industrial, communications and computing markets.

Our combined portfolio of products and system solutions would better serve a broader customer base with more complete offerings by bringing together the leaders of analog integration and power integration. Our combined products and solutions would enable our customers' platforms with even greater differentiation, integration and performance. Together we could deliver to our customers a significantly superior solution to that of our competitors. We believe that our combined scale would increase our ability to quickly deliver products in higher volumes to enable our customers to aggressively introduce new and innovative products.

The companies' expectation is to close the transaction in the fourth quarter of 2013 subject to required regulatory approvals and other customary closing conditions.

We will be holding an Employee Communications meeting today at 11:00am PT in our large break room for our Fremont employees. US based employees outside of Fremont are encouraged to dial in for a "Go To Meeting". I will introduce you to Tunc Doluca, President and CEO of Maxim, Matt Murphy, SVP of Communications and Automotive and Steve Yamasaki, VP of HR at Maxim. They will provide additional information about the announcement and our shared vision. We will have separate meetings for those of you located internationally. Our international locations will be notified separately of the date and time.

This is a very exciting day for Volterra as we take our next big step forward in building our business. I look forward to seeing you at the Employee Communications meeting and talking with some of our international teams within the next week. Jeff
