Item 9

ASTRAZENECA TO STREAMLINE US SALES ORGANISATION

AstraZeneca announced today that it will reduce its US sales force by approximately 1,150 leadership positions and sales representatives as part of the company's ongoing strategy to operate its business more efficiently to best serve patients in the US.

These changes, which were not included in previously announced efficiencies to the US business, will account for roughly 24 per cent of the company's sales organisation in the US. The impact of the changes will vary by geography and selling teams.

"These are difficult decisions that impact valued employees," said Rich Fante, President, AstraZeneca US. "The changes we are making, however, will help us deliver better results for our business and, most importantly, continue delivering on our mission of patient health."

Employees will have the option to self-identify to potentially leave the company. All decisions will be finalised by early February 2012.

This change to the US sales force is incremental to the ongoing second phase of the company's restructuring programme that was announced in January 2010. As a result, a discrete restructuring cost associated with today's announced changes, estimated at between $50 million to $100 million, will be charged in the fourth quarter of 2011. Restructuring costs are excluded from the company's core financial measures, so this initiative has no impact on guidance for core earnings per share for 2011.

Item 19

ASTRAZENECA UPDATES ON OLAPARIB AND TC-5214 DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMMES

With Associated Impairment Charges, Company Confirms Full Year Financial Target, But Guides to Lower Half of Its Core EPS Range

AstraZeneca today announced that its investigational compound olaparib will not progress into Phase III development for the maintenance treatment of serous ovarian cancer. In addition, AstraZeneca announced that the second RENAISSANCE Phase III study of TC-5214 for patients with major depressive disorder did not meet its primary end point. As a result, AstraZeneca will take pre-tax impairment charges totalling $381.5 million to R&D expense in the fourth quarter of 2011. The company confirms its expectation for full year Core EPS in the range of $7.20 to $7.40, but with the inclusion of these intangible impairments, Core EPS is likely to be in the lower half of this range.

The decision to discontinue olaparib's development in serous ovarian cancer was made following a review of an interim analysis of a Phase II study (study 19) which indicated that the previously reported progression free survival benefit is unlikely to translate into an overall survival benefit, the definitive measure of patient benefit in ovarian cancer. In addition, attempts to identify a suitable tablet dose for use in Phase III studies have not been successful. No new safety concerns were identified for patients.

With respect to TC-5214, the second of four Phase III efficacy and tolerability studies of the compound as an adjunct therapy to an antidepressant in patients with major depressive disorder who do not respond adequately to initial antidepressant treatment, did not meet its primary end point. The target measure was change in the Montgomery-Asberg Depression Rating Scale total score after eight weeks of treatment with TC-5214 as compared to placebo. TC-5214 was overall well tolerated in RENAISSANCE 2 and showed an adverse event profile generally consistent with prior clinical trials of TC-5214. Analyses of the full data set from the RENAISSANCE 2 are ongoing.

These results follow the recent announcement of top-line results of the RENAISSANCE flexible dose trial study 3, which also did not meet its primary endpoint. AstraZeneca will continue with the development of the two remaining fixed dose Phase III RENAISSANCE efficacy and tolerability studies and one long-term safety study. Regulatory filing targets will be reviewed following full results of the remaining studies which are expected in the first half of 2012. A potential New Drug Application filing in the US is planned for the second half of 2012, with an EU Marketing Authorisation Application targeted for 2015.

As a result of the termination of further development of olaparib in serous ovarian cancer, the company is taking an impairment of $285 million pre-tax charge. A further impairment of $96.5 million pre-tax charge will also be taken based on the lower probability of success for the remaining TC-5214 studies. The value of the remaining intangible assets held in relation to TC-5214 amount to $96.5 million.

These impairments will have an approximately $0.21 negative impact on the company's Core EPS in the fourth quarter. The company's Core EPS guidance remains unchanged at between $7.20 and $7.40 per share, although it is now likely that Core EPS will be in the lower half of this range.

NOTES TO EDITORS

About Olaparib

Olaparib is an oral PARP inhibitor that exploits DNA repair pathways to preferentially kill cancer cells. Human cells have a number of repair pathways to maintain normal DNA integrity. Olaparib inhibits PARP that is involved in one of these DNA repair pathways (Base Excision Repair). Inhibition of PARP results in a build-up of DNA damage in the cell, requiring repair via an alternative pathway called Homologous Recombination repair (HR). Cancer cells that already have a damaged HR pathway are limited in their ability repairing their DNA, overloading them with DNA damage and causing them to die. Importantly, normal (non-cancer) cells, that have full DNA repair capacity are unaffected by PARP inhibition, resulting in tumour selective cell killing.

The investigational cancer treatment olaparib was acquired when AstraZeneca bought KuDOS Pharmaceuticals in 2005.

About The RENAISSANCE Programme

The RENAISSANCE Programme consists of five randomised, double-blind, placebo controlled Phase III studies. In RENAISSANCE study 2, 1,320 patients with MDD were screened at 45 sites in the United States and 25 sites in India. Of the patients screened, 710 initially received one of seven serotonin reuptake inhibitor (SSRI) or serotonin/norepinephrine reuptake inhibitor (SNRI) on an open label basis for eight weeks to determine the extent of therapeutic response. At the end of the eight weeks, 319 patients who did not respond adequately, based on predefined criteria, were randomized into the double blind phase of the study and received either a flexible dose of TC-5214 or placebo, twice daily, while continuing the SSRI or SNRI therapy for an additional eight weeks. The dosage of TC-5214 was initially 2 mg/day and could be increased at the discretion of the investigator to 4 mg/day and 8 mg/day based on tolerability and therapeutic response.

In addition to RENAISSANCE 2 and RENAISSANCE 3 (previously reported), the RENAISSANCE Programme includes two fixed dose studies (RENAISSANCE 4 and RENAISSANCE 5) designed to evaluate the efficacy and tolerability of TC-5214 as an adjunct treatment to SSRI/SNRI therapy and RENAISSANCE 7, a long-term safety study in which patients receive TC-5214 or placebo, plus baseline SSRI or SNRI, for one year.

About Targacept and AstraZeneca Collaboration

In December 2009, AstraZeneca and Targacept signed a collaboration and license agreement for the global development and commercialisation of TC-5214. The initial goal for the collaboration is to develop TC-5214 as an adjunct treatment for MDD in patients with an inadequate response to an SSRI or SNRI. TC-5214 is also being studied in a Phase 2b 'switch' monotherapy trial, known as the EXPLORER study, in patients with MDD who do not respond adequately to initial treatment with a SSRI or SNRI.
