The words "believe", "anticipate", "expect", "intend", "estimate", "plan", "assume", "positioned", "will", "may", "should", "risk" and other similar expressions which are predictions of or indicate future events and future trends which do not relate to historical matters identify forward-looking statements. In addition, this Report on Form 6-K may include forward-looking statements relating to the Company's potential exposure to various types of market risks, such as interest rate risk, foreign exchange rate risk and commodity price risk. Reliance should not be placed on forward-looking statements because they involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors which are in some cases beyond the control of the Company, together with its subsidiaries (the "Group"), and may cause the actual results, performance or achievements of the Group to differ materially from anticipated future results, performance or achievements expressed or implied by such forward-looking statements (and from past results, performance or achievements). Certain factors that may cause such differences include but are not limited to: the highly cyclical nature of the pulp and paper industry; pulp and paper production, production capacity, input costs including raw material, energy and employee costs, and pricing levels in North America, Europe, Asia and southern Africa; any major disruption in production at the Group's key facilities; changes in environmental, tax and other laws and regulations; adverse changes in the markets for the Group's products; any delays, unexpected costs or other problems experienced with any business acquired or to be acquired; consequences of the Group's leverage; adverse changes in the South African political situation and economy or the effect of governmental efforts to address present or future economic or social problems; and the impact of future investments, acquisitions and dispositions (including the financing of investments and acquisitions) and any delays, unexpected costs or other problems experienced in connection with dispositions. These and other risks, uncertainties and factors are discussed in the Company's Annual Report on Form 20-F and other filings with and submissions to the Securities and Exchange Commission, including this Report on Form 6-K. AGM UPDATE

We reported our results for the our first financial quarter on the 31st of January, which reflected the 6th consecutive quarter of year-on-year improvements in operating performance excluding special items.

At the same time we said that we expected the operating profit excluding special items to improve again in our second quarter on a year-on-year basis. We are on track to achieve this.

Looking at our business on a region by region basis, the Southern African businesses and Forest Products in particular continue to perform strongly, supported by good demand, improving prices and the weakening Rand. Management is acutely aware of rising input and labour costs and this remains a key issue.

The SA business was unfavourably impacted by the power disruptions earlier this quarter. After a major disruption for 3-4 days we reached agreement with the national utility, Eskom, to reduce our purchases by generating more of our own power. We have subsequently operated without further major disruptions; however, the additional power comes at additional cost.

The US$500 million Saiccor expansion is due to be completed in the second calendar quarter. At full output the project will increase capacity of chemical cellulose by about a third. With pulp prices at current high levels the timing of the start up appears very favourable. The full impact will only be felt in the next financial year. The project will also improve Saiccor's energy efficiency and result in a further reduction in our power purchases.

Our North American business has shown a steadily improving trend as a result of improvements across all disciplines. We expect to see further improvements from this business but are conscious of the warnings from economists about a possible slow down in the US economy. Demand for coated fine paper in web form and price realisation continues to improve; however, in sheet form the markets continue to be influenced by low cost imports. We still have some way to go with the turnaround of this business and the improving trend is encouraging.

Our most critical requirement is to fix our European business. The position has not improved and prices have edged up off the bottom in some markets; pressure remains on our sales force to increase prices further. Input cost pressure is continuing, as it is group-wide, and we are exploring every area of our business for efficiencies and cost reductions. While we continue to reduce our costs, returning to acceptable profitability in Europe with current high input cost levels does require material price increases.

There seems to be general understanding in the market that prices have to go up and there are media reports of price increases by all major producers which sounds encouraging.

After years of declining prices in Europe and high operating rates we are convinced that consolidation of the segment is needed to sustain long term profitability.
