Item 2.05 Costs Associated with Exit or Disposal Activities

On June 24, 2014, StarTek, Inc. (the "Company") announced the planned closure of our Heredia, Costa Rica facility. This closure is part of the Company's efforts to optimize capacity across all locations. The Company expects to cease operations at the Heredia facility in the third quarter of 2014.

The major costs expected to be incurred with closing the Costa Rica site are facility-related costs, primarily consisting of those costs associated with the real estate lease. The Company estimates that facility-related costs will be approximately $0.5 million to be paid through the remainder of the lease term, or December 2014, and expects to incur approximately $1.0 million in one-time employee termination benefits. The Company estimates that substantially all of the restructuring costs associated with these closures will be cash expenditures.
