New Holland Construction and Kobelco Construction Machinery

America Join HACIA

HACIA benefits support minority- and women- owned businesses in the construction industry

CAROL STREAM, ILL., Feb. 25, 2008 New Holland Construction and Kobelco Construction Machinery America have joined the Hispanic American Construction Industry Association (HACIA), a 29-year-old business membership organization that promotes the growth and professionalism of its members in the construction industry.

At New Holland Construction and Kobelco America we recognize the importance of supporting and promoting minority- and women-owned businesses, said Edgar J. Chavez, director of marketing for North America for New Holland Construction and Kobelco America. This is one of the fastest growing segments of the construction industry today, and we're glad that we can be a part of it, directly and through HACIA.

HACIA's membership represents more than 250 construction companies, professional services and construction-related service firms. Member benefits help minority- and women-owned businesses in the industry to better market their products and services, grow their circle of business contacts and gain project leads. HACIA is cited by many developers and government agencies as a reliable assist agency and a valuable resource for female- and minority-owned construction companies.

New Holland Construction Partners with Total Landscape Care Magazine

to Award Dream Package

One lucky landscaper wins an L170 skid steer in the publication's Landscaper's

Dream Package contest

FARGO, N.D., Feb. 25, 2008 Jeffrey C. Moen, operator of Jeff's Landscaping Inc., has been awarded a New Holland Construction L170 skid steer, along with thousands of dollars in other landscaping equipment and supplies, as part of the Landscaper's Dream Package from Total Landscape Care magazine. Moen and his crew accepted the prize from Rajesh Joshi, senior director of sales at New Holland Construction, in subzero temperatures in Fargo, N.D.

Winning this machine couldn't have come at a better time, as I wrap up my second full year of business and begin to plan for a third, said Moen. My father owns a New Holland machine, so I am familiar with the quality and innovation associated with the brand, and I can't wait to put this machine to work.

The L170 was the premier item in the prize package, which had a total value of almost $50,000. Made in Wichita, Kan., the machine features New Holland Construction's new enclosed cab and ergonomically placed controls. Other items in the package included a zero-turn mower, trimmers and ornamental products, and several insecticide products.

The L170 skid steer is designed for optimal productivity, whether it is used in landscaping, construction, demolition or any other application, said Dave December, brand marketing manager for New Holland Construction's skid steer line. We are confident that with this piece of equipment, Jeff's Landscaping will have one of the tools it needs to continue to thrive; and with a design that keeps comfort and control top-of-mind, his crew is going to love it, too.
