Dear [NAME],

Earlier this week, OPNET and Riverbed announced a definitive agreement for Riverbed to acquire OPNET. We are thrilled to share this exciting news with you! Riverbed expects the acquisition to be completed before the end of Calendar 2012.

This is a great development for OPNET and Riverbed customers. It's a combination of two recognized leaders in performance management with highly complementary offerings. The combined product family will have unparalleled ability to manage and analyze all aspects of application and network performance, including monitoring, troubleshooting, optimizing, and predicting.

OPNET products and staff are a key part of this acquisition. Riverbed has made it clear that it intends to preserve and invest in these assets. Customers will benefit from the resources, global presence, and synergies of the combined organization. Current OPNET leadership will play key roles in continuing to grow the business. In particular, OPNET's CEO, Marc Cohen, will lead Field Operations for Riverbed Cascade, including sales, sales engineering, and professional services.
