ITEM 2.06. MATERIAL IMPAIRMENTS.

On July 23, 2012 Boston Scientific Corporation (the "Company") concluded in conjunction with its annual goodwill impairment test that the goodwill within its Europe, Middle East, and Africa ("EMEA") reporting unit was impaired. Consequently, the Company recorded a non-cash $3.405 billion ($3.427 billion pre-tax) estimated goodwill impairment charge associated with its EMEA reporting unit for the quarter ended June 30, 2012, primarily driven by slightly lower projected long-term growth rates due to macroeconomic factors and the Company's performance in the European market. The amount of the goodwill impairment charge is subject to finalization and is expected to be in a range of $3.1 billion to $3.7 billion. In addition, the Company recorded an impairment charge of $110 million ($129 million pre-tax) related to purchased research and development intangible assets associated with its acquisition of Sadra Medical Inc. for the quarter ended June 30, 2012, primarily driven by the Company's revised expectations of the required effort, time and cost involved in completing the in-process projects and bringing the related products to market.
